Rhythm Express Spotlight

It's been suggested on more than one occasion that I take some time to mention a little bit about etiquette on the dance floor. Although there are dozens of different things that could be discussed I'll limit myself to what I consider the most basic yet highly important. Remember this is as simple as good manners and what we do to make other people comfortable.

- Keep a pack of mints or gum handy, as you are most likely going to get close and have some conversation, but don't get so close that you invade your partner's personal space.
- Be aware of your place on the dance floor. Gentlemen need to be careful of where they send their partners and utilize some floor craft. Adhering to the slot in dances like swing is also another way to stay out of harms way. Ladies need to be careful with their arm styling specifically in dances like hustle. The more crowded the dance floor the more conservative should be the use of arm styling.
- Some of the more active dances are going to work up a sweat. Gentlemen, bring a change of shirts or two and a towel. This can be the most considerate thing you can do for your partner.
- Good Hygiene - You sure don't want to dance with a partner that smells bad and I'm sure they don't either. Be careful not to over compensate with too much perfume or cologne as this too can be reason enough for someone not enjoy dancing with you.

This is a short list of the many things that fall under the category of "Dance Etiquette".

Just keep in mind that it is up to you to make your partner comfortable and that usually comes down to plain old good manners.

Happy Dancing,
